Consider proposed rezone of APNs 043-080-015 and 043-080-044 to apply an RH-20 (High Density Residential – 20 units per acre minimum) overlay Zone District to be consistent with the adopted 2013-2021 Housing Element of the General Plan

Public comment:

Paul Johnson, 6015 Horseshoe Bar Road, asked what low income means for the apartments, $500 or $1000 or what?

Jeff Mitchell, Town Attorney, stated that we would need to refer back to Placer County's median income and then do the calculations.

Jean Wilson, 4301 Barton Road, stated the following:

- some of the data is in the Housing Element report
- low income sounds scary but it is not as low for Placer County, it could include public school teachers

BUSINESS

16. Loomis RV Park – Partial Exemption From Duration of Stay Limitations

Consider a partial exemption from the duration of stay limitations imposed on the Loomis RV Park and requiring that the Park make permanently available no less than 16 spaces for daily/weekly rental

Recommended action: Take public comment; adopt a resolution approving a partial exemption to duration of stay limitations for the Loomis RV Park

Public comment:

Jean Wilson questioned if this helps the Town in the low income housing element requirements.

Jeff Mitchell, Town Attorney, stated that we don't know yet but that is a question that we will be looking at as we move forward.

Tom Niederkofler, representing the owner of the park, stated the following:

- if this is approved it will secure 16 spaces for transient use and there will be no impact to the current residents of the park
- if the Town is interested in having more transient spaces available, they do have a section of the park that is only used for storage and could be converted to campsites and RV parking

Following further discussion on the matter, a motion was made to approve Resolution 14-21, approving a partial exemption to duration of stay limitations for the Loomis RV Park and require permanently available 16 spaces for daily and weekly use. On motion by Councilmember Ucovich, seconded by Councilmember Black and passed by the following roll call vote:
